TWO BALLOONS STILL IN AIR; 10 BAGS DOWN

Navy No. 1 and Detroit Times Entry Believed Over New England

MAY SET NEW RECORD

Of Others Already Landed Van Orman Makes Best Distance, 465 Miles

PITTSBURGH, May 6—Two of the 12 balloons which took off here Saturday evening in the 1929 national elimination races still were in the air today, with possibilities of setting a new record in their drift over New England.

Ten of the dozen entrants were reported landed this morning, the last to report being the Detroit Balloon club entry, piloted by S. A. Rasmussen, which grounded at Camden, N. Y. Rasmussen reported to the race headquarters here today that he and Tracy Southworth, aide, had landed shortly after 9 a. m. Sunday.

With the report of Rasmussen's landing, interest centered on the two bags remaining in the race—Navy No. 1, and the Detroit Times' entry.

Interest in Two

Navy No. 1, with Lieut. Thomas G. W. Settle, pilot, and Ensign Wilfred Bushnell, aide, was reported sighted over Brattleboro, Vt., and was believed to be heading northeastward into Canada.

The Detroit Times, carrying E. J. Hill, pilot, and S. G. Schlosser, aide, was also believed to be traveling northeast over New England, although no reports had been received from it.

Less Fortunate

The other nine entries in the eliminations fared less fortunately. Three of them came down in Pennsylvania, and the remaining six were forced to descend in New York state.

Of those who have reported themselves out of the race, the Goodyear VII, Ward T. Van Orman, pilot, and A. T. McCracken, aide, made the best distance, landing near Kesseville, N. Y., a distance of approximately 465 miles.

HUGHES' SON IS APPOINTED TO U. S. LAW POST

President Hoover Announces He Will Become Solicitor General

SELECTION IS SURPRISE

Job Is Regarded as Second Only to Attorney Generalship

WASHINGTON, May 6—The new solicitor general of the United States is to be Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., son of the former secretary of state.

President Hoover will send the nomination to the senate today.

The solicitor generalship, which is regarded as the premier governmental law post with the exception of the attorney generalship, has been vacant for two months. The present attorney general, William D. Mitchell, occupied the post before his promotion to the cabinet.

Young Hughes is a graduate of Brown and Harvard law schools and has been practicing in New York for several years.

Distinct Surprise

His appointment came as a distinct surprise to political Washington, for his name has not figured in the speculation. Nearly every state in the union had a candidate for the solicitorship. At one time there were more than two score recommendations on President Hoover's desk.

The outstanding candidates for the post have been George H. Bond of Syracuse, N. Y.; John G. Buchanan of Pittsburgh, and Charles I. Dawson, of Louisville.

Has Been with Father

As solicitor general, young Hughes will be the government's principal pleader before the United States supreme court, upon which his father sat as associate justice until 1916.

In his New York practice, Hughes has been associated with his father's firm of Hughes, Rounds, Schurman and Dwight.

He is said to have had the backing of all the Republican leaders of New York for the appointment.

CHILD BEATEN, BODY THROWN INTO RIVER

Baby Girl Found in Gunny Sack; Perpetrators of Crime Sought

POMEROY, May 6—The horribly-mangled body of a two-month-old baby girl, which was found in a gunny sack floating in the Ohio river at Racine, near here, yesterday, lay in a morgue today, as county authorities began a search for the perpetrators of the crime.

Strips, apparently torn from a window blind, were wrapped tightly around the child's neck.

According to indications, the body had then been placed in the sack, and afterwards beaten with a heavy club.

One side of the infant's skull was crushed flat.

The back was like a piece of pulp, showing plainly that the little girl had been severely maltreated.

It was described by authorities as one of the most gruesome finds ever taken from the Ohio river.

C. E. SILVA NAMED DEPARTMENT HEAD

Will Return to Marion May 19 as Shovel Co. Advertising Manager

Clarence E. Silva, who for the past year has been doing special salework for the Marion Steam Shovel Co., in the East, will return to the Marion plant May 19 as advertising manager. Silva had previously been located in Marion for nearly four years before being transferred to the New York office.

Announcement of the change in the advertising department of the local plant was made by company officials today. Chester H. Gibbons, 314 Forest st., present advertising manager, will be transferred to the engineering department, it was stated today.

Silva joined the engineering staff of the Steam Shovel company in 1923. Later he served as sales correspondent, sales engineer, advertising manager, assistant export sales manager and for the last year has been doing special sales work in New York and New England.

Silva served as a lieutenant in the artillery of the Yankee division during the World war. While in Marion he was active in fraternal and sport circles.

AND STILL ALIVE!

Engine Hits Auto, Tosses It in Ditch; Two Unhurt

COLUMBUS, May 6—Herman Outland, his wife and a four-year-old daughter are alive today—which wouldn't be news, except for the fact that they had a miraculous escape from death yesterday when their auto was struck by a Big Four yard engine at a crossing here, was carried the length of a football field down the track and then thrown upside down into a ditch. The trio suffered only slight injuries. The car was demolished.

[illegible] $500,000,000 a year could be saved by improved handling methods. Look into the "skid platform" device. Henry Ford suggested the five-day work week "that workers might have time to spend and enjoy their earnings." Prosperity, according to Ford, must depend on wise spending of the ninety billions per year collected by wage earners.

* * *

New York's building trade takes the suggestion seriously and 150,000 men by threatening a strike have won the five-day week, with five and a half days' pay.

The workers, well rested, can, if they choose, do as much in five days as they have done in six. That's what they should do, in justice to other men.

SENATOR CAPPER, of Kansas, trusted by farmers, backs President Hoover's farm bill. He opposes the debenture subsidy plan, which would pay a bonus to exporting middlemen, rest the taxpayers heavily and do the farmer little if any good.

Russia attacks farm relief intelligently. Albert Kahn of Detroit, one of the ablest architects in America, has been engaged to spend $5,000,000 on tractor factories at the mouth of the Volga River.

Mr. Kahn, who builds all of Henry Ford's factories, will have at his disposition all the Ford plans. The factories will produce 40,000 tractors a year, sold at cost, on long credit to farmers.

We'd call that "paternalism" here. But perhaps it's only common sense.

We may even learn something from Russia.

OWEN D. YOUNG, able American, is thought to have solved the German reparations problems.

His suggestion, approved by Britain, would let Germany pay annuities for 37 years, instead of 58 years, beginning with $402,000,000 a year, instead of $800,000,000 increasing payments by $6,000,000 a year for ten years.

* * *

It would be better to leave Europe to settle its own quarrels, this country keeping out of them.

But, since we must meddle, we seem to have chosen well in selecting Mr. Young.

Boys' Week Headliners

Clark Wideman, 11, and Robert Flach, 13, Rank Among Leaders in List of Winners in Various Contests Here

CLARK WIDEMAN

TWO outstanding boys in Marion's observance of National Boys' week, which closed Saturday night, were Clark Wideman, a student in the seventh grade at Greenwood Street school and Robert Flach, a student in the sixth grade at Oakland Heights.

Wideman, who is 11 years old, is the son of Mrs. Floy Wideman and lives at 731½ North Greenwood st. His mother is a member of the faculty of the Greenwood Street school.

Flach is the city marble champion, having won this honor for himself and the Berry-Kettle trophy for his school over the eight other schools champions at the city finals last Tuesday. He is 13 years old and lives on Gill av.

If an individual star of the entire week should be chosen the honor would undoubtedly go to young Mr. Wideman. He won the bird-house contest and the Rosenberg-Kleinmnier trophy for his school, the Wenruth Kennels' $50 cocker spaniel for himself for the best essay on "Why Boys Love Dogs" and took a first place in the hobby exhibit with his display of cone work and painting.

Dog Sought by Many

Of course the prize which pleased him the most was the little black dog which about 300 Marion boys had set their hearts on winning. A special judging committee from the Square Heads club which donated the dog decided that Clark's essay excelled all others, not only in neatness, but selection of subject matter. His essay, which was well below the maximum of 300 words, explained so well why he loved dogs that the judges could hardly refuse from giving "Sambo" to him.

Clark's essay was one of 61 which escaped through the first eliminations and reached the hands of the final judging committee.

His bird house, which won the Rosenberg-Kleinmnier trophy for his school, was by far the best of the ten that were on exhibition.

Two Marion Boys Receive West Point Appointments from Congressman Mouser

George R. Gretser Named as Principal and Walter Moore as First Alternate; Both Graduates of Harding High School; Gretser Due to Enter Academy July 1

Two Marion boys were appointed as principal and first alternate to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point today by Congressman Grant E. Mouser, Jr.

The boy named as principal is George Rushmore Gretser, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gretser, 238 East Washington av., and the first alternate is Walter Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Moore, 248 Gurley av. Robert Baker, of Findlay, was designated as second alternate.

Both of the Marion boys are graduates of Harding High school.

Entrance Set for July

Gretser, named as a cadet to the West Point academy, will be admitted July 1 provided he is successful in passing the physical examination required. He graduated from Harding High in 1927 with honors, receiving 19 and three-fourths credits, which is one credit less than five years' which he accomplished in four years. He entered Ohio State university in the College of Commerce and Administration in 1927, being allowed 18 credit hours on his record in the local high school.

Moore, now employed as a cashier at the local C., D. & M. office also made a splendid showing in Harding High school. He graduated in June, 1928, at the age of 17 with an average of 95.5 per cent. He was an officer of that year's National Honor Society at the high school. He was highly recommended by members of the school faculty to Congressman Mouser, who reports that he hopes to place Moore in the military academy at an early date.

Findlay Appointee

Robert Baker, the second alternate, is the son of the auditor of the Toledo, Bowling Green & Southern Traction Co. As was the case with the two Marion boys, Baker was given excellent recommendations, three in his case coming from citizens of Findlay and members of the Findlay school faculty.

In announcing the appointments today, Congressman Mouser said that he made the selections after the most careful consideration. He reports that it was impossible to hold a competitive examination for applicants, due to his having been advised by the War department that the appointment should be made at once, inasmuch as the successful candidate is to be received at West Point for training on July 1.

HAS SATISFACTION OF KNOWING HE HIT BANDIT

TAKEN FOR RIDE, THEN BEATEN, ROBBED OF $1,200

CLEVELAND, May 6—Thomas Mills, chief electrician at the Union depot here, was robbed of $1,200 by two thugs who attacked him early today. At St. Alexis hospital it was reported that Mills had suffered a fractured jaw.

GRAND JURY SESSION OPENS COURT TERM

14 Charges in List To Come Before Body Starting Deliberations Today

ONE MURDER CASE

Report of Findings Not Expected Before Late Tuesday

With one murder case removed by the self destruction of Mrs. Stella Mae Johnson, 11 charges remained to be considered by the grand jury which opened the May term of common pleas court this morning. Prosecuting Attorney Alfred Donathen took charge of the jury shortly after 9 o'clock after it had been officially sworn in by Common Pleas Judge George B. Scofield.

The grand jury is not expected to report before late Tuesday and may not complete its work before Wednesday. The docket is one of the largest to be placed before a grand jury here in many years.

Third This Year

The present grand jury session is the third called this year. The first opened the January term of court. Another session was called a month later after several persons had been bound over. This jury is expected to provide considerable criminal work for the common pleas court and prosecuting attorney. All persons previously indicted this year have pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Scofield. It is expected, however, that a number of petit jury cases will result from the present grand jury session.

Charges of murder, rape, burglary, grand larceny, non-support, removing mortgaged property from the state, carrying concealed weapons, pointing firearms, are included in the cases to be considered by the grand jury.

One Murder Case

The death of Mrs. Johnson leaves only one murder case for the grand jury. That is the case of Charles Pennington, charged with the murder of Clement Shuster in a fight following a dance at Agosta.

Two rape charges involve Gerann Sullivan and Ora Patton. Two charges burglary and grand larceny, stand against both Thomas Sherman and Peter Helbkl. Andrew Cranmer and Bernard Baer are charged with grand larceny.

Ernest Walpole is charged with removing mortgaged property from the state. H. A. Huber is charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Donald A. Tougnett faces a charge of non-support. POOR SHOT

Unknown Assailant Fires Three Times at Toledo Patrolman

TOLEDO, May 6 — Patrolman Leonard Mills was today telling his brother-officers of his narrow escape from death yesterday when he was fired upon three times by an unknown assailant.

Spying a man lurking in the shadows of a building early yesterday morning, Mills ordered the man to stop. The man turned and fired two bullets at the officer. The policeman returned the fire, and the unknown dropped as if wounded.

When the patrolman ran in close, the man jumped to his feet, fired a third time, and then fled.

Mills escaped unwounded.

Capital's Social Warfare Flares Up Again Over Mrs. Gann

* * *

WASHINGTON, May 6—The capital's social warfare over the seating precedence at formal dinners did not end with solemn decision of the diplomatic corps that Mrs. "Polly" Lynn, hostess of Vice President Curtis, was entitled to rank as the second lady on such occasions.

Those who thought it did just don't know their Washington.

The buzzing around the tea tables and in the drawing rooms began anew today and concerned a dinner given by the Eugene Meyers, who have long been prominent in capital society.

To this dinner, so the story goes, were invited the Ganns, and Speaker and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who was Alice Roosevelt.

UPON learning that Mrs Gann was to be present seated as the ranking lady, Mrs Longworth is said to have sent her regrets at the last moment. These regrets, it is said, were followed by Mrs Gann's regrets when she was appointed that Mrs. Long-

PASTORS INDORSE COMMUNITY FUND

Hear Talk by Morgan Burke, Who Classes Project as Great Forward Step

The Marion County Ministerial association voted its hearty indorsement and cooperation in the Community Fund drive opening May 20, at a meeting this morning at the City library.

In his talk before the association, Morgan Burke, of the Ulber-Phillips Co., said in regard to the Community Fund: "To me this seems the most pronounced forward stride which our city has manifested in recent years. While too early for one to speak definitely, I nevertheless confidently believe that this movement will benefit this city of ours beyond expectation.

Unless our judgment be sadly imperfect—this one city-wide effort, embracing as it does an appeal to every person within Marion's boundaries, should serve to stimulate and develop that greatly-to-be-desired united civic spirit."

Lauds Organization

Continuing Mr. Burke said that in the community fund organization of a representative body of public spirited citizens, Marion seems to have a group capable of carrying to a successful conclusion any movement for the welfare of the city.

Concluding, he made this plea: "If I may fittingly do so, I beg of you to throw behind this unselfish movement the full influence of your positions as ministers of the Gospel."

RIFE TIRES OF COLLEGE BOOKS, JOINS MARINES

Letter from Marion Boy Clears Up Mystery of Disappearance

MISSING 8 DAYS

"Humdrum Study" Not "Making Man of Him," He Writes to Parents

Because he felt that college books were not "making a man" of him, Marvin Rife, 17, of Marion, sophomore of Wooster college, joined the U. S. Marines, according to a letter received from him yesterday morning by his parents, clearing up an eight-day mystery surrounding his disappearance from Pittsburgh a week ago Saturday afternoon.

The letter was sent from Yemassie, South Carolina, enroute to Parris Island, S. C.

The theory that "high pressure salesmanship" methods were used by Marines to attract the boy into the services was advanced by Mr. and Mrs. Hobson, parents of Miss Janet Hobson, of Pittsburgh, whom Rife last saw before his disappearance. They told Wooster officials Marine literature was widely circulated around the Seventh Avenue Hotel where Rife left his baggage, and also said there were many Marines in the district who might have influenced the boy to join.

Changed Plans Indicated

This theory was advanced when they said they were convinced that Rife left their home Saturday afternoon with full intentions of returning to Wooster. They said he talked continuously about his studies and his work at college in an apparently interested manner.

Printed here is the letter in full as received by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Rife, 155 Superior st., yesterday morning at 9 o'clock:

"Yemassie, S. C.

"Dearest Mother and Dad:

"Now I know what my love for you means. You will perhaps never forgive me for what I have done, but you must help me to get straightened out for the next four years.

"I will tell you all I did. On last Friday morning I left Wooster, dead sick of studying. For a week I have been traveling south. Finally I ended up in Richmond, Va., under the name of Stanley Howe Bowman, of Pittsburgh. There I applied for entrance into the U. S. Marines and was accepted yesterday. I am now on my way to Parris Island, the Marine lines. I gave my age as 21, born in Cheshire, Ohio, Aug. 12, 1907 (this is true with the exception of the date and age).

"Father, what I want you to do is to write to the Commanding Officer, M. B. Parris Island, and inform him that Stanley Howe Bowman is Stanley Marvin Rife, aged 21, and give him your approval of my entrance into the Marines.

"There is great opportunity for me here. I will take up engineering and after four years will have a good job out in the world.

"I am sending all my clothes home tomorrow. You watch you gave me, my high school ring, and everything. I will inform the commanding officer

FIRE TRUCKS SCARE YEGGS FROM STORE

Work Four Hours on Safe in Store After Gagging Watchman

CINCINNATI, May 6—Frightened by the clanging of bells and the piercing scream of sirens on fire apparatus answering an alarm, four yeggmen, after binding and gagging an engineer and watchman, fled from the store of Rollman & Sons, just when their work of four hours was about to be completed.

The quartet overpowered the engineer and watchman last night, and remained in the store until 1 o'clock this morning when they were frightened away by the sounds of the firefighters.

During the night, one of the robbers escorted the watchman on his hourly rounds and forced him, at the point of a gun, to make his regular "okay" calls.

They worked on the large "burglar proof" safe for nearly four hours. Three "TNT" charges were set off by the thugs, but the safe door held fast. The noise of the blasts was deadened by carpets and robbers had packed around the vault.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS KARL S. BOLANDER

Former Marionite, Now Columbus Art Director, Is Speaker Here Today

A great deal of fun for the everyday was a feature of the talk by Karl S. Bolander, former Marion man and now director of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts before the Marion Rotarians.

Provided with an abundance of illustrations of the finest and most unusual sorts of newspaper magazine cartoons, street car and poster advertising, Mr. Bolander entertained and instructed his hearers for nearly an hour.

Use of colors in advertisements and proper selection of lettering, and the choice of calendars applicable to one's business were some of the highlights of the speaker's talk.

Praise for the art work now being done in high schools was given by Mr. Bolander.

Dr. James Crawmer, president elect of Rotary and delegate to the Akron district conference, several weeks ago gave his report of the meeting. Dr. Carl Sawyer and W. L. Bartholomew who also attended sessions of the conference likewise made reports.

No phonograph seems to undertake to sing the baby to sleep. Why not put it to work?

Demonstrate Telephone's Use on Speeding Canadian Train To Be Practicable

All Transcontinental Carriers in United States and Canada Will Be Equipped for Long Distance Transmission and Reception

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
Marion Star Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 6.—Telephoning from a fast moving railroad train having been demonstrated as practicable, officials of the Canadian National Railways today began work on plans to install the service on its system and [illegible] is the transcontinental [illegible] with this new and revolutionary service.

Ultimately it is expected all transcontinental trains the United States and Canada will be equipped for long distance telephone transmission and reception.

The 10 newspapermen and railroad executives who yesterday afternoon witnessed the demonstration of telephoning from a train today predicted the test a distinct success. The train from which the telephone was used was travelling about 60 miles per hour at the time and a connection was quickly made with the main office of the Canadian National Railways at Toronto 17 miles away.

Inaugurates Service

W. D. Robb, vice president of the Canadian National Railways, inaugurated the service. After conversing a few minutes with his office in Toronto he turned the telephone over to the International News Service correspondent.

This reporter then sent the first news paper story ever telephoned from a train. He dictated a dispatch over the telephone to an assistant at the other end of the connection in the company's office miles away in Toronto.

Almost immediately the dispatch was being transmitted by direct wire to the International News Service in New York.

"The practicalities of this new system of communication are limitless," said Mr. Robb today. "Business men can clear up their transactions by telephone, correspondents who must be always on the move can keep their readers informed of their movements and reporters will be able to get their stories with the greatest speed.

Also Broadcasts

Mr. Robb not only telephoned from the train but also broadcast over the radio from the train while it was travelling at a fairly high speed. He was connected with the company's radio station in Toronto and almost immediately his words came back over the radio aboard the train. It was a feature unique in the history of radio development.

It was 3:30 p. m. when Mr. Robb seated at a corner of a Pullman coach lifted up the receiver of a confidential dial phone and he wished to talk to Toronto. In less than a minute the connection was established.

New papermen talk

Hello, this is Mr. Barber talking.

The reply was in the affirmative. Then Mr. Robb said: "I hear you very well. I want to take the occasion to congratulate all the men who made this achievement possible."

All then, one by one the newspapermen talked to Toronto. The train was clicking over the rails at a 60 mile an hour speed. Yet this in no way interfered with conversation back and forth. The voice at the other end was as clear and audible as a voice ordinarily is during a local call.

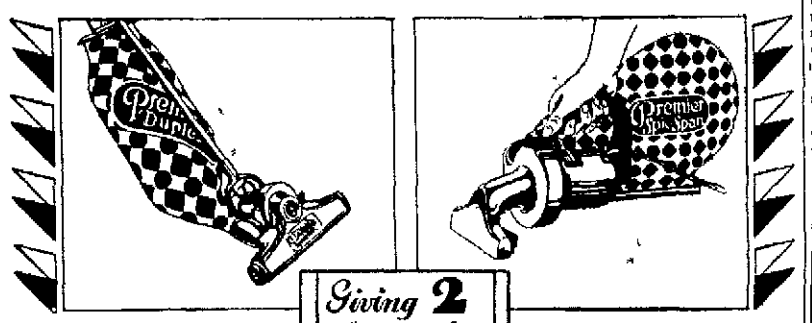
now... in place of attachments this Extra Electric Cleaner



Giving 2 cleaners for the price of one

HERE'S an easier, faster way to clean . . . without the use of a single attachment. Two electric cleaners—both for the price of one. A big Premier cleaner for the rugs and carpets—and a handy cleaner, the Spic Span, for lighter tasks.

The Spic-Span given in place of attachments

The Premier Spic Span is the result of years of research. It retains all the superiorities of the big Premiers . . . super suction, ball bearings—no oiling! Weighing only four pounds, the Spic-Span can be taken from task to task without waste of time or steps.

It cleans faster and better because it gets its nose close to the dust and dirt. You can plug it into any electric socket and clean mattresses, clothes, stairways, upholstery, automobiles, nooks and crannies everywhere.

Why use a big cleaner for little cleaning jobs? With the Premier two-cleaner idea, you can cut your housecleaning hours in half. For, as soon as you're finished with the big cleaner, you drop it and pick up the Spic Span. No lost motion—no unnecessary strain.

The Spic Span may be purchased separately for $[illegible] or in one of the following combinations. Phone or visit us today and arrange for a private demonstration. No obligation.

The snug uplifting inner belt, the smooth firmly controlling lines are all the same as in the regular "96" pattern. But the materials are light and cool. All the webbing in the garment—in the diagonal bands and side sections in the inner belt and in the outer garment—is of "Aeroweb" a specially woven, porous elastic. The body of the garment is also of an open rayon striped fabric—"Breezetex."

The brassiere section is of cool rayon mesh. All the features of the regular "96" pattern are retained but to them are added this lightness and coolness which makes this an ideal summer garment.

1,400 PATIENTS FLEE BURNING HOSPITAL

Fire Breaks Out in State Institution at Morris Plains, N. J.

MORRIS PLAINS, N. J., May 6—Fourteen hundred patients of the New Jersey State hospital at Greystone park, near here, were forced to flee their beds in scanty nightclothing early today when fire broke out on the fourth floor of the five-story main brick building of the hospital.

Three fire departments from adjacent towns responded to calls for aid and withdrew at 2:15 a. m., when the blaze was thought under control.

Later in the morning, however, the smouldering embers of the blaze, whipped by a rising wind, burst into flame and call for aid were again sent out. At last reports, the fire still was burning and had eaten its way through the rear of the building where it was threatening the main portions of the institution.

PLANE CRACKS UP

Student Pilot in Unlicensed Craft in Columbus Crash

COLUMBUS, May 6—A student pilot, flying an unlicensed plane, "cracked up" at the edge of the valley crossing flying field south of Columbus, yesterday and today the pilot was in a serious condition in a hospital here, while his passenger was recovering from less serious hurts.

A. V. Terry, 32, part owner and pilot of the ship, suffered a fractured skull and severe lacerations about the body. Oscar E. Bergstaler, 20, his passenger, experienced a fractured arm and other minor injuries.

The plane's motor is thought to have stalled just after taking off from the field. It crashed from a height of about 100 feet. The plane had been rolled off the Sullivan municipal airport field a short time before, because it was unlicensed and was carrying passengers.

It was the Waco-9 type. Terry held a student's license.

Boys Find Victim of Bullet Wound Dying Near Kenton

(Special to The Star)

KENTON May 6—Police authorities here are trying to learn the identity of a man apparently 65 years old who was found dying at noon today in a clump of bushes along the Erie railroad track about one mile west of this city. A group of Kenton boys bound for a fishing trip were the first to notice the man, shortly before noon when they heard several groans as they were passing the railroad. Becoming frightened they hurried to their home and notified their parents who in turn called local police. The man died in an ambulance on the way to the hospital. His body was taken to the Findley mortuary awaiting identification.

The man was about five feet four inches in height and wore a pair of overalls over a dark gray suit. The only mark of identification was a tag in the suit which showed that it had been purchased from a Kenton clothier. The rifle with which the man killed himself was found near the body.

President Roosevelt thereupon gave a special dinner for Uncle Joe at which he was the ranking guest.

The dinner has become an institution in Washington. Once every year the president gives a formal dinner at the White House to the speaker of the house. It is known as the speakers dinner.

Story of Calvary Vividly Portrayed in Illustrated Lecture by Rev. G. A. Keith

More Than 1,000 Persons Make Up Audience Addressed by Priest Presenting Beautiful Account of Christ's Sacrifice as Exemplified in Mass of Catholic Church

The story of Calvary exemplified in the mass of the Catholic church was presented in exquisitely colored pictures and beautifully explained in story by the Rev G A Keith former dean of men at the University of Detroit to an audience of more than 1,000 persons last night in the State auditorium.

For more than two hours the large audience listened intently to Father Keith's eloquent recital of the sweetest and the saddest, the strongest, the most comforting and beautiful and inspiring love story the most sacred but was ever told. Included in the 300 pictures were reproductions of masterpieces by Raphael Murillo Michael Angelo Fra Angelico and Tintoretto and many others and in them were foreshadowed the Sacrifice at Calvary.

Sacrifice Is Keynote

Sacrifice was the keynote of the lecture which opened with a sorrowfully beautiful picture of Christ, bound and crowned with thorns and suffering for the sins of the world and this picture also brought the lecture to a close. Other scenes depicted here on the sacred mysteries of the Incarnation of Jesus His life His passion and death on Calvary preceded by His last testament to man the Holy Mass of the New Testament when on the night before his death on the Cross on the Last Supper He changed bread and wine into His true body and blood with the command His apostles. By this [illegible] of Melchisedech the power handed down to the priests.

Vivid portrayal were the scenes of the 1927 Passion play including that of Abel accepted by God at Noah at Thanksgiving, after the flood of love when an angel stayed the hand of Abraham of Melchisedech the worship of the golden calf and the giving of the Ten Commandments to Moses.

Nativity Portrayed

The Nativity of Christ was presented in a series of beautiful scenes and following the presentation and story of the Last Supper Father Keith explained the glories of the ordination the priest and the mission of the sacraments of the priest and the altar symbolized together with the meaning of the prayers offered by the priest and congregation during the mass. Other scenes portrayed the first communion of the baptized mass and the nuptial high mass.

Realistic scenes of the celebration of mass under fire in the recent World War were shown and graphically interpreted by Father Keith who saw service overseas as a marine chaplain. The lecture concluded with beautiful scenes from the life of Our Lord and the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Miss Margaret Hoover violinist accompanied by Miss Lucille Conarty at the piano play during the lecture and during Father Keith's talk played Holy Night at the presentation of the Nativity scenes. Stabat Mater O Lord I am Not Worthy and the Wedding march and portions of the nuptial mass.

Rev Father Keith was brought to Marion under the auspices of the Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic Women of which Mrs N J Gebhardt is president.

D. L. CHENEY ON STORM TOSSED SHIP

Former Marion Man Tells of Experience in Battle with Gale

D L Cheney of Buffalo former Marion man now employed by the Marion Steam Shovel Co with headquarters in Buffalo was one of the passengers aboard the City of Buffalo Lake Erie steamer which drifted helplessly in a late storm last Thursday and Friday. Word that Cheney was one of the passengers was received here today.

According to Cheney the lives of ship passengers were placed in jeopardy at times by an unruly crew which fought for life belts which others looked on.

When Cheney finally arrived in Cleveland his original destination with other passengers of the ship he made this statement to newspaper representatives:

"It was a terrible experience and all efforts of officers of the ship to restore order were frustrated by the crew. The crew was inefficient and unruly and only through the excellent work of the officers was a panic prevented.

"After leaving the storm for two days during which the ship drifted with a broken rudder and bursted cylinder head the passengers were transferred to the City of Erie a sister ship. They were landed in Cleveland Saturday."

COOPER, DRY CHIEF HOLD SECRET MEET

Discuss Enforcement Conditions at Lancaster and Lorain

(By International News Service)

Secrecy and silence prevailed in Ohio prohibition circles today.

All was quiet along the Lancaster-Millersport where it is charged Pat Little Dayton and John O Cole Steubenville suspended dry agents need high school girls as decoys in gaining evidence against alleged liquor law violators.

It was the same at Lorain where all actions state Cole held a parley, purely on the personage of the Rev George L Conners Union Rescue Mission.

But things were somewhat different in Columbus. There was not only silence but secrecy.

It is known that Gov Myers Y Cooper and several members of his cabinet including State Prohibition Commissioner R R Bertram are in a huddle at the chief executive's mansion at Columbus. The officials slipped quietly from their stations to confer this morning and congregated at the governor's home.

Latham has ordered Prosecutor Russell Cunningham and several other Lancaster officials to appear before him tomorrow afternoon in connection with the charges that high school girls were used as liquor decoys and that Little and Cole gave the girls intoxicants to drink.

In taking this step it is reported the state prohibition department, which had remained on the defensive while Bertram was absent from Columbus is taking the offensive and the "attitude" that if the liquor laws had been properly enforced at Lancaster the "unpleasant situation" would not have occurred.

It is also reported that Governor Cooper is discussing the Lorain raid with Bertram which may result in a further investigation.

It is believed that tomorrow's conference will mark the end of the affairs, however.

WEARY OF SCHOOL, RIFE JOINS MARINES

Letter from Marion Boy Clears Up Mystery of Disappearance

as to other particulars when I reach Parris Island.

Please do this for me. The reason I ran away from school was my hatred for humdrum studying on subjects which did not make a MAN of me.

I am sending this letter special delivery. Write to the commandant officers as soon as possible. My term is four years but I shall get some furloughs in between.

I love you Mother and Dad. Give my love to John Hazel Ellen Clara Virginia and Kenneth. You must do as I say in this letter. Dad and everything will clear up. Remember I am—

With all my love
Marvin

S M Rife said this morning he would make no false statements in regard to his son's age or in any way mislead officials. The parents also stated they would make no effort to force the boy to return following a conference with Probate Judge Oyer later this morning.

Police of two states radio stations and officials of Wooster college were enlisted in the search for young Rife last week. The parents made a trip from Wooster to Pittsburgh and returned quizzing hospitals and police as they traveled. Mr and Mrs Hobson and Mr and Mrs Collins relatives of Hobsons made a trip from Pittsburgh to Wooster over an other route Saturday searching for the boy.

Marvin Rife met Miss Janet Hobson at Wooster last fall, where she was visiting Miss Beraice Collins, her chum daughter of Mr and Mrs A C Collins. Rife spent a part of his last Christmas recess with the Collins and Hobson families in Pittsburgh.

He left Wooster college Friday night, as he said in his letter, "hitchhiking" his way to Pittsburgh. Friday night, he slept at the home of Mr and Mrs. Walter G Mears, and became ill about 4 o'clock Saturday morning. Medical aid was given and after a hearty meal, he left the Mears home Saturday noon, according to a letter from Mrs. Mears. He joined Miss Hobson and they attended a movie, after which he left about 5 o'clock, saying he was to catch a bus to Wooster, after picking up his baggage at the Seventh Avenue Hotel.

When he disappeared, Pittsburgh officials advanced the theory of foul play, suspecting he elected to "hitchhike" his return to Wooster. It was on this theory that officials and parents spent last week searching for him. No indication of his whereabouts was discovered until his letter was received here yesterday.

Rife had assumed ability as a student, having graduated from Mansfield high school in May at the age of 16. He was to enter up a year of [illegible] high school in Wooster as a [illegible] student on May 16, as "Cadet Rife." His accomplishments appeared unusual him, college officials [illegible]

Daily Proverb—"The world wags on with three things: doing, undoing and pretending."

One thousand Persians killed by earthquake. The force of the sunspot theory is surely being brought home to the world in 1929.

President William Fox, of the Fox Film corporation says the present investment in the film industry in the United States is $1,750,000,000. Is he figuring in real money, or advertised production costs?

A London despatch tells about a New Yorker broker being caught over there for $10,000 by an old, moth-eaten confidence game. We have long contended that New York had Main Street "beaten to a frazzle" when it came to the turning out of dyed-in-the-wool hicks.

A San Francisco girl of nine is recovering from an operation immediately following which her temperature was 112, which drives another spike in the theory regarding possible extremes in bodily temperature beyond which death is bound to ensue.

The Atlantic City postoffice people are sending back to the writers 9,000 letters, each containing a dollar, which had piled up since a firm, advertising $10 silk dresses for a dollar, became alarmed over the activities of the postal authorities and slipped out of the city. Mr. Barnum was right.

It is now stated that the dry agents who entered without warrant the home of a Lorain clergyman, used vile language in the presence of his wife and broke up their furniture in a search for liquor, did so through error, mistaking his home for one next door. It is significant, however, that the fact that a mistake had been made was not mentioned until the clergyman took the matter up with Governor Cooper.

When such a vessel as the City of Buffalo is caused by the severity of a storm to drag her anchor for forty miles, as that vessel did last week, it gives us a new slant on the kind of a storm which may muss things up on Lake Erie.

Dr. William Montgomery McGovern, of Northwestern university, just back from the Amazon basin, says that the women of the interior basin wear nothing whatever, not even a necklace, but that, as to morals, they have more and stricter ones than were enjoyed by the mid-Victorian ladies who wore plush plus and then some clothing. Now we would like to see somebody with the nerve to knock the undressing of the girls, since it has been thus set out as a road to morality.

Double Danger in Hitch-Hiking.

The fate of young Marvin Rife, of this city, who disappeared from Pittsburgh, April 27, with the supposed intention of hitch-hiking to Wooster, where he was studying for the ministry, is no longer a matter of mystery. He has written his parents that he has joined the marines.

When nothing had been heard from young Rife for several days after it was assumed he had started for Wooster, fear was felt that he had been picked up by a motorist and had fallen into trouble. The fact that his disappearance was broadcasted far and wide; that the police of many states were on the lookout for him; that search was made for him in all the towns and villages between Pittsburgh and Wooster and that for a week the anxiety of his parents, relatives and friends was great, shows how general is recognition of the fact that hitch-hiking is a two-edged sword, in that it is dangerous to the hiker as well as to the motorist picking the hiker up, although in the great majority of cases the motorist runs the greater risk.

From any viewpoint, the hitch-hiking practice must be recognized as a bad one, and the sooner it is abandoned the better it will be for the well-meaning motorists and hitch-hikers alike. So many cases have occurred where motorists have been held up and robbed by those they picked up; so many drivers have been beaten up and murdered, and so many hikers have been robbed and thrown out of machines regardless of how or where they might land, that common sense calls for the abandonment of the hitch-hiking practice, an outcome which may be speedily brought about by the refusal of all motorists to pick up anybody unknown to them. When motorists adopt this safety-first course, it will not be long till solicitations by hikers for rides will be no more, for when there will no longer be chance of getting "lifts" from motorists, there no longer will be hikers seeking them.

As we have said, hitch-hiking did not figure in the case of young Rife save by the way of suggestion, but that the public mind was such that it figured as it did shows the general recognition of the danger of the practice. It's a duty motorists owe themselves and innocent-minded hikers alike to end the hitch-hiking business.

Economy of a Community Chest.

Forty four thousand dollars is the goal set by the public-spirited citizens who are giving of their time and effort as well as their means to the campaign for the raising of a community chest fund for Marion.

At first thought, this amount may seem to some a large one, but such an impression should be dissipated when they give consideration to the many channels into which it is to go, to the wide field of endeavor to which it is to be applied. The budget makes provision for every local agency which makes appeal to local philanthropy. It includes the Boy Scouts, the Red Cross, the St. Vincent de Paul society, the Young Men's Christian association, the King's Daughters, the Kiwanis Fresh Air camp, the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs, the Parent-Teachers' association, the Salvation army and the American Legion auxiliary. It does more than that. It provides against any further solicitation during a twelfth-month by the inclusion of a fund to meet any emergency call, such as might come from the Red Cross, in the event of a state or national disaster.

Thus considered, it may be realized that the sum sought is not large compared with what the community has been expending for the same purposes in years past. As a matter of fact, it is far less than the aggregate the people of Marion, as the result of indiscriminate and unsystematic giving and the expenditure of money by overlapping agencies, have annually devoted in recent years to philanthropy. Why, the very purpose of a community chest is to work economy in time and effort in raising the fund needed and, by guarding against duplication in expenditure, to conserve that fund that the best possible results may be reaped from it.

As may be noted by reference to the agencies named as included in the budget, the fund raised is to be applied not only to the relief of want and distress and suffering, but also to character building in the young, which we have long looked upon as a fine business investment, rather than a work of philanthropy, for it usually brings back in interest many times the principal expended. Build up the right kind of character in the youth of the city, and you build up an asset which makes unending return. Surely, all must realize that the good to be had out of the Boy Scout movement, let us say by way of illustration, is not limited to the good done to Scouts alone. That's but a bit, a small bit of it. The greater good is that which results from the training they receive and the molding of character resulting therefrom, the effect of which is reflected on the community life and proves of inestimable value.

The purposes for which this fund is sought are commendable; the community chest provides the most sensible and economical method of meeting their needs, and the fact that the one annual campaign does away with all other campaigns for funds for philanthropic purposes should commend it to a citizenship, which for years has been unable to appreciate freedom from solicitation for the reason that such solicitation has been almost endless.

Secretary Wilbur says the administration's view is that "the place of the national government is not that of supplying large amounts for carrying on the administrative functions of education in the communities, but to develop methods, ideals and procedures, and to present them to be taken on their merits." It's a pretty safe bet the administration's educational ideas do not run side by side with those of the educators.

Eighty-one men including the postmaster and former police officials of Chicago Heights have been indicted for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, and a former police chief of San Antonio, Texas, and nineteen others were convicted of conspiracy to defeat its operation. The indictment of T. J. The fifteen represent just about every party and political faction in the city. In the event of convictions, it will still hold good that "guilt is personal."

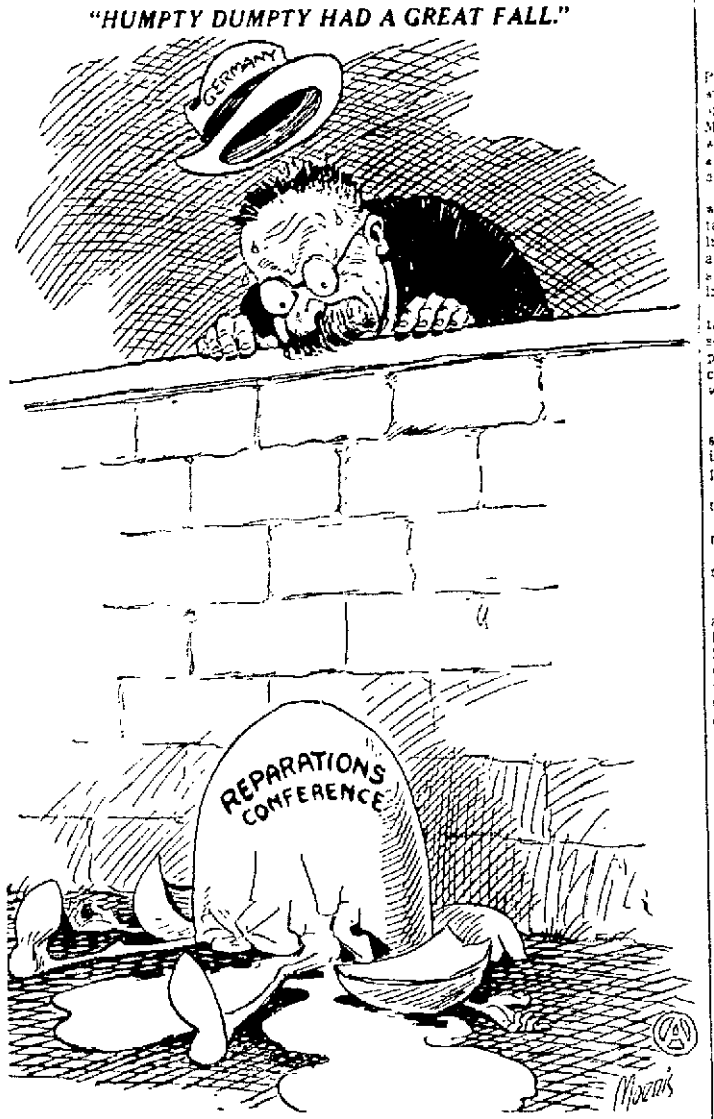
"HUMPTY DUMPTY HAD A GREAT FALL."



Cold Often Caused by Neglect.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the most common of human afflictions is sore throat. Many persons can not get wet feet or expose themselves to the weather without an attack.

I doubt exceedingly if climatic and weather conditions are tremendously important factors in the development of sore throat. There are other causes which must not be overlooked.

Nine times out of ten a careful study of the case will show some violation of the rules of hygiene. Loss of sleep, worry and overwork must be counted among the important causes.

I am surprised that more attention is not paid to the digestion and elimination. It will be found in nine case out of ten that the intestinal tract is not clean. It is difficult to say exactly how a sore throat could be traced to this particular cause. I must say, however, that my observation, covering a good many years, has caused me to conclude that sluggishness of the intestinal tract is usually an accompaniment of every sort of sore throat.

If this is true, it must follow as a matter of course that overeating, abuse of the stomach by the taking of rich foods and all the other things that we know are capable of producing indigestion, may be the background of a cold. If you go away on a visit and your friends feed you everything under the sun, you are bound to suffer a reaction. A sore throat is merely one of the symptoms.

The veins that carry the blood from the lining membrane to the lower bowel run almost directly to the liver. They are a part of what we call the portal circulation. These large blood vessels go to the liver and that organ is supposed to filter out the bacteria and poisons which have developed in the intestinal tract. Under ordinary conditions the liver does its work effectively. But it can not accomplish the impossible. If these poisonous things are there in too large a quantity, they escape into the general circulation of the blood. Then they are carried everywhere, of course.

Let us assume, then, that this state of affairs is present in the system. The person in question does a lot of talking, perhaps he makes a speech or two, or he smokes a lot—then what happens? There is enough irritation and congestion in the tonsils and other parts of the throat so that the bacteria and the products of bacterial action find a favorable place of attack. The next thing is a sore throat of some sort.

What are we going to do about it? The sensible thing is to clear out the intestinal tract by enemas or suitable medication. Then the diet should be restricted for a day or two. This procedure will guarantee that no further poisoning of the tissues shall take place.

Fresh air, sunlight, plenty of sleep in a well-ventilated room, and restricted hours of labor will complete the cure. I am sure this will appeal to you as sensible advice.

The fact is that pain or discomfort is usually an evidence of abuse of the body. When we learn to live hygienic lives and to observe rules of sensible living, we will have fewer aches and pains. We really have no right to grouse when we are uncomfortable because in most instances we are merely suffering the effects of our own misdeeds. Aches and pains are sent by Mother Nature as a reminder that we need to reform.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. A. P. Q—What can be done for varicose veins?

A—If the varicose veins are slight, bandaging or wearing an elastic stocking is often effective, but in most cases surgical procedure is necessary. Applications of warm witch hazel are beneficial in some instances.

Editorial Opinion.

COMMUNISM'S BLOODY TRAIL.

If any American has doubts of the determination of communism to impose the "dictatorship of the proletariat" at all costs, however sanguinary, May day news from Europe should clear them up.

In Berlin eight persons were killed and seventy-eight were seriously wounded as red agitators ran amuck in the streets. In Kovno, capital of Lithuania, a casualty list of slightly smaller dimensions is recorded. Hungary's principal cities were turned into armed camps to protect law-abiding citizens from Communist attack. In Paris the police made more than 3,200 arrests of reds bent on trouble making. In Warsaw police swords and sabers had to be used freely to disperse Communist mobs, with a resultant crop of forty or fifty broken heads. In Moscow and other soviet controlled centers in Russia armed forces numbering many tens of thousands paraded behind flaunting banners attesting Communism's devotion to "world revolution." Even in our own part of the world—at Mexico City—red May day demonstrations assumed more or less menacing proportions, including assemblage before the American embassy.

Communism's annual orgy of bloodshed and riot in Europe synchronized, almost to the day, with a gratifying pronouncement from the department of state in Washington: "I may say," said Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, in a terse communication to Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, "that no change is under contemplation in the policy of this government with regard to the recognition of the present regime in Russia."

Colonel Stimson's terse declaration means that the program of diplomatic boycott of Moscow, instituted in the Wilson administration and sustained by the Harding and Coolidge administrations, is to be perpetuated by the Hoover administration. There is, of course, always the open door of possibility that a "change," not now "under contemplation," may some day take place. But it will have to be preceded by a change in Moscow before there is any in Washington.

High up on the list of conditions precedent to any alteration of American policy is the demand that the soviet solemnly pledge—and by its continuous works in this country carry out the pledge—that there shall be no sanguinary May days of Communist instigation on American soil. To date the red masters of Russia have resolutely refused to commit themselves to such a compact. It is the sine qua non to American recognition of the soviet system.—Washington Star.

The Diamonds of Educaton.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The business of making doctors of philosophy—Ph. D's—Professor J. Paul Goode asserts, is one of the major industries of our country, and a flourishing one. In proof he notes that our 376 colleges and universities possess a "plant of a value exceeding $2,000,000,000, and the annual budget for maintaining "graduate education" is well above $350,000,000.

Then he goes on to say that "not only is this business of making Ph. D's one of the major industries; it begins to look as though we were taking on the airs of mass production."

And he adds that the college program can be stated as simply as the engineer states the business of making automobiles. But, the engineer's problem is simple; his raw materials being uniform in quality there is no serious difficulty in obtaining uniformity of product. But in the university and college the material, consisting of men and women is far from uniform. "The Lord did not make them equal in any way."

There is the hitch in the great educational problem, as far as it is concerned with what are called the "higher branches," which, in fact, really means only the more specialized branches. There the candidate for the degree must be "milled" in order to be shaped into a finished Ph. D. For that purpose he must have individual attention and instruction, such as can not be bestowed upon a whole class as a complex unit. Continual personal contact with an able, inspiring and indefatigable teacher is the indispensable thing for the candidate. But to have that in its fullness, it would almost be necessary to have as many instructors as candidates. The teacher himself must already have gone through the mill.

Nothing worse could ever happen to the cause of education than to receive the stamp of fashionable society. It is to be feared that even the laboriously-won Ph. D. degree is often sought for the sake of its eclat. It is perfectly certain that that is the motive that leads thousands of young men and women to college to seek for a general degree. It would be far better for many of these to end their public education with the high school. The really good colleges and universities now have to put up higher and higher barriers to keep from being overflowed with the flood of incompetent and imperfectly-prepared candidates for admission.

When these dikes consist in a large part of financial barriers a tragic element is introduced, owing to the danger of excluding gifted youths who really possess the requisite qualities for becoming educated leaders and workers. Yet it may be that the difficulties imposed in this way often insure the excellence of the product. It is certain that only good material can survive, when a young person has to study hard and at the same time work for the money to pay for the instruction.

According to Professor Goode, the handicaps to be overcome by those lacking money "do not compare, as handicaps, with easy money and wealth assured." And there is great encouragement for gifted candidates whose purses are lank, in this statement: "Studies have been made which show that up to the present time the men and women in this country who have made the bulk of worthy contributions in productive scholarship, in science, art, literature, have come from the farms and villages, and from homes of moderate wealth or no wealth. So far as my observation goes, easy money in the hands of the student, with its evil concomitants of idleness, dissipation and impatience goes farther to prevent achievement in scholarship than all the poverty of pioneer conditions."

But America is getting richer, and its riches are becoming more distributed. How will it be with scholarship, when all students come with plenty of spending money? Probably it will be as it always has been; the intellectually and morally-gifted will continue to be the only diamonds that their alma mater will be proud of. Nature produces them, and she can only cut and polish them. — Copyright, 1929, International Features Service, Inc.

A play called "Poison Gas Over Berlin" has been shown in the German capital. Some of the newspapers declared it was treason to show the drama. It depicts the horror of poison gas in the next war. It is propaganda against the use of this deadly weapon. There ought to be more plays like that, and they might well be shown in the theaters of all nations. It is time the people were taught less about the glories of war and more about its horrors.

One reads that "ever since it gained supreme power in China the Nationalist government has been actively commissioning American experts to advise it." Those who already have been engaged to help in the task of lifting China from the wreckage of fifteen years of civil war include Dr. Edward Walter Kemmerer, professor of economics in Princeton university, who, with a large staff, arrived in Shanghai in February to advise on currency reform; Henry Killam Murphy, architect, who is to draw plans for modernizing Nanking, the Nationalist capital, and Ernest Payson Goodrich, harbor engineer, who is to draft plans for constructing in the Pearl river, at Canton, a harbor for ocean liners.

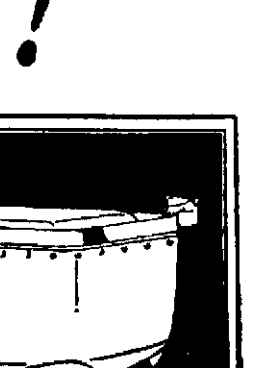
Feeling Like New Man Since Using Treatment of Dr. French's Nu-Erb



E F EVANS

Thousands of well known men and women have used and are daily recommending the great herbal medicine Dr French's Nu Erb Its amazing success in this city over a period of eighteen months may be attributed to genuine merit on the part of this herbal compound Is the statement of Mr E F Evans 407 Nile Ave Warren Ohio

In my case it has proven every claim that was made for it continued Mr Evans My entire system was badly rundown because of the fact that my stomach was in such a delicate condition that I did not get the proper nourishment from my food It seemed as though everything I ate formented and formed a distressing gas that kept me in distress from one meal to the next Bits of sour undigested food came up in my throat like vinegar and although I tried lots of so called remedies for indigestion I could get no relief from this trouble I lost my appetite slept poorly at night and felt tired and worn out most of the time

It is really surprising how quickly Nu Erb put an end to each one of these troubles for now I can eat just about anything I want and am not troubled with indigestion or any other distress in my stomach after [illegible] hook his head vigorously [illegible] tonight In the morning [illegible] He laughed hysterically [illegible] that if the Phantom [illegible] there I good there would be no morning for him Why should you complain? You are earning your five hundred pretty easily

One thousand bell corrected him It's easy money all right but I'd rather hustle a bit for it Anyhow I'd like to take a run through the house If you bolt the door when I step out, you will be just as safe as——"

"You stay here, Mr Craig interrupted excitedly "That's what I'm paying you for Wish you would put a couple of more logs on the fire I'm freezing

"I'm roasting" said Bell but he did as directed The logs blazed up snapping and showering sparks at the screen A touch of color had returned to Mr Craig's sunken cheeks. He moved toward his armchair which had stood unoccupied during most of the vigil and prepared to ease himself into its comfortable depths when of a sudden he shrank back gasping He looked as terrified as if a serpent had leaped out of the upholstery and stung him

"What now" asked Bell sitting up straighter

Mr Craig his gawky shoulders hunched up to the level of his ears was pointing shakily to something lying on the seat of the chair His jaw worked with a queer twisting motion but his lips could frame no words

Bell stepped up behind him looked over his shoulder and pushed him ungently aside As he picked up a piece of paper from the chair a hoarse quavering cry broke from the older man The paper contained only a single typewritten line Bell read the terse message aloud

"Hope you are enjoying your last night on earth"

A short feeble yawn from Mr Craig punctuated the reading of the sentence With a series of jerky tremors he stared in helpless terror at the detective

"Who sent you this?" he groaned "Do something—[illegible]"

"Shut up!" commanded Bell All the nervousness had died out of his face His nerves were mixed with a baffled anger on the upholstered surface where the note had lain

"Stop that confounded whimpering I'll get the hang of this. Like a——"

Brows knitting he turned his gaze from the chair and looked at the typewritten line "I take it you know who sent this note Craig That isn't what interests me just now though What I'd like to know is how in blue hades it got into this room It wasn't here 30 minutes ago You will tell me the wind brought it I suppose?"

He chuckled sarcastically but with a hollow sound It was plain that Bell was excited though he endeavored not to show it The discovery of the note had demoralized the cynical flippancy out of his mood

At length Mr Craig found his voice "Remember those raps Bell? The person who did the rapping must have brought the note

"Of course That makes everything clear" Bell snorted disgustedly "Mr Craig it's a waste of time to talk like that I held the door open for just about 30 seconds and nothing got past me while it was open That's a dead sure thing The note got in here some other way and I'll be hanged if I see how It couldn't have blown in through the walls or dropped down through the ceiling or crawled up through the floor Let me have a look

He stepped to the window made sure that the shutters were fastened securely then moved systematically along the wall tapping it here and there with his knuckles

"You're wasting time" said Mr Craig I had a carpenter go over the room this morning

But Bell continued his search going over the same ground that Green had covered some 15 hours before He tested every board in the floor then elevated himself to the table and with equal thoroughness examined the ceiling A frown settled deeper and deeper into his brow When he had finished he shook his head with an air of utter bewilderment

"Too deep for me" he grumbled "I never believed in ghosts and I don't believe in 'em now but this looks mighty queer I can see only one answer He lowered his voice a little "There must be somebody hidden in the room

Mr Craig cast a startled glance over the furniture "That's crazy" he managed to say

Of course but the whole thing is crazy Somebody delivered that note He couldn't have got into the room while we have been here so it stands to reason that he has been here all the time and that he is here now

Mr Craig stood stock still looking on with dazed eyes while Bell turned the bed topsy turvy emptied the drawers of the dressing cabinet ransacked the clothes press looked under the big arm chairs and behind the curtains even pulled out the table drawer and rummaged its scattered contents It was the most expert search Mr Craig had ever witnessed but when it was over they were no nearer the solution of the mystery

"That settles it" muttered Bell with a semi comic expression "From now on I believe in ghosts"

Mr Craig started to reply but just then a new thought struck him and it seemed to have an instantly bracing effect on his nerves The wild look in his eyes was transformed into an expression of grim intentness He bent a narrow calculating look on the detective who had slumped into the chair and sat looking down at the floor Very stealthily his hand crept to his pocket and drew out the pistol he had carried there for the last two days A crooked grin twisted his lips as he turned the barrel toward Bell

"I see it now" he declared in an oddly calm voice "You are the ghost Bell"

Bell turned his head his eyes widening as he saw the pistol pointed at him A look of mingled astonishment and alarm came into his face

"Gone plumb crazy" he asked

"No I think I am sane now There was a touch of deadly grimness in Mr Craig's voice "You dropped the note in the chair while my back was turned You fooled me for a while but I see through you now You're behind all these doings Bell No don't move I'll kill you the moment you get out of that chair I think I'm going to kill you anyway—you rat!"

His voice rose to a shrill pitch His gaunt face bore an enraptured diabolical expression There was a venomous glitter in his eyes as they blazingly searched the detective's face

Hold on said Bell an unsteady quaver in his voice You're talking rot Why should I——"

"You're wasting your breath" interrupted the other sternly "I see what happened Somehow the Gray Phantom got wind of the fact that I——"

"The Gray Phantom?" exclaimed Bell starting out of his chair but falling back again as Mr Craig made an ominous motion with the pistol

"So it's the Gray Phantom who's after your hide Why the devil didn't you say so at once"

"Never mind said Mr Craig I understand now The Phantom learned I went for you He bribed you to take orders from him You told me yourself you have no conscience It was clever of the Phantom but I got wise to you in time You slipped the note into the chair yourself Nobody else could have done it You said so only a moment ago Your own words convict you"

"Punk" exclaimed Bell "Be sane Craig" You might just as well say that it was I who rapped on the door a while ago although I was sitting right here at the time If I planted the note in the chair who did the rapping? Tell me that"

Mr Craig's jaw sagged The pistol wavered slightly in his hand A look of doubt came into his eyes and then as if moved by a mutual urge the two men looked toward the door A cry rose in Mr Craig's throat but it was strangled into a groan

In rapid succession three raps sounded on the door

For a moment Bell sat stonily still as if shocked into insensibility by the repetition of the knocks Then he jumped up and hurried to the door In a moment he had thrown it open and stood looking out into the corridor

"Come back" said Mr Craig in a dead small voice "Close the door!"

Bell cast another glance up and down the hall, shrugged, closed and bolted the door gave Mr Craig a look of mingled contempt and bewilderment and went back to his chair

Oh all right he said disgustedly If you're not in on the job for the sneak don't blame me for what happens

He settled comfortably in the chair Mr Craig standing beside the table staring fixedly at the door shivered as if in a fever Then of a sudden a dazed look fell like a mask over his features He turned his head slightly and just then a hoarse sibilant whisper sounded somewhere in the room

"Your Time Is Up, Craig"

Silence broken only by the exultant snap and crackle of the logs followed the ghostlike whisper So unreal was its origin that even Bell sat stunned in his chair his brows slightly arched his eyes peering vaguely at the pistol in Mr Craig's hand now held at a harmless angle The older man had started to turn his head in the direction whence the voice came but a numbing dread deadening mind and muscles, interrupted the movement

The interval of stillness lasted only a moment and then a small dark object hurtled through space catching the detective neatly above the temple A thud sounded followed by a half strangled cry Bell's head lolled dizzily for an instant, the whites of his eyes receded and after a valiant effort to steady his reeling senses he crumpled back against the chair

Still Mr Craig stood motionless, gripped by a paralyzing fear, his sensations outdistanced by the swift and inexplicable rush of events Somewhere in the room a little click sounded, and the bulbs in the chandelier went dark

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affection

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mrs Tiger Humored Before She Will Join in the Family Plans

I FELT distinctly uncomfortable at the childish figure which I felt I was cutting in my colloquy with Anna Schmidt, but I could see no alternative It was highly necessary to our plan for the protection of Princess Olina at the farmhouse that we have no unnecessary people on our hands If this faithful old servant were to continue grieving as I had found her doing a recurrence of her serious heart attack would be almost inevitable And to do Olina justice I knew that the slightest hint of Anna's condition would bring her to the old woman's side regardless of possible danger to herself So I solved my conscience—or rather my sense of the fitness of things—with these unguents as the old woman looked fixedly at me and replied to my question

I will never tell anybody what you tell me

Not the princess, not your husband? I stipulated

Nobody nobody she reiterated

Then I lowered my voice I will tell you one reason why I do not wish the princess to marry Mr Noel I want him to marry an American girl—my niece

For the first time I saw the wraith of a smile flit across her tear ravaged face

Ah—h!" she said and I knew that I had hit upon the one thing which would make her believe me She had not much faith poor Anna in the altruism of anyone But if I could convince her that I wanted Noel for my niece she would believe that I would keep the promise I had made her not to permit her adored mistress to marry the young American

With an intuition that I would do well to say nothing more for a little I kept silent while on her worn face incredulity finally gave way to belief and confidence in me Finally she broke the silence

You good woman, she said "I believe you You want me stop crying get rich go away so you take care of—she choked—my baby

It was the old nurse who was speaking now the woman who had cared for the imperious child princess But I saw that she had herself under control and that though she would grieve at the separation from her darling she would have no more terror for her and would be able to school herself to calmness

"Yes I want you to go to your home as quickly as you can I said If you cry as you were doing you will be sick and cannot go Then you know the princess would come to you

She rose to her feet and drew her frail figure erect

You will not tell her" she pleaded

"No indeed I said "I will tell her only the truth that you are a very brave woman and love her dearly She put out her hand then drew it back as if she were taking a liberty But I grasped it with the feeling that handclasp from so devoted a soul as hers was something like an accolade

Good-by. The good God bless you she said and with that benediction in my ears I went back to the other room finding it empty But upon crossing it and going out on the veranda I found Mrs Tiger in a watchful guarding attitude while a little distance off upon the lawn Noel was engaged in an animated colloquy with the dour old man who had been in the service of Princess Olina

Everything's all right I said hastily as she turned to me interrogation in every line of her face She stopped sobbing and is really quite calm I don't think she will give you any more trouble

She put her arms akimbo and looked at me admiringly

"I don't know how you did it" she said shaking her head "You're a wonder Tiger would say you had witches blood in you

She laughed comfortably and pulled out a chair

Can't you sit down a bit?" she asked with one eye upon the Iranian old man in the distance I feel as if I'd like that old coot out there to see us sitting and talking pleasant like—he's been lording it so long, and him nothing but a hired man himself It it hadn't been for Miss Linda and the poor old lady I'd have quit long ago

I humored her very human desire and sat down in the chair while she took one opposite me The old man on the lawn lifted his head glared at her and took a step toward us then evidently reflected that he had no more control over her for he turned back to Noel Mrs Tiger laughed softly at the little by play

That almost killed him she said, but as the youngsters say I should worry But looking keenly at me, you didn't sit down here just to give him an eyeful You've got something to tell me I know

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M LEWIS

When me and Jubilee woke up yesterday morning which was Sunday morning it was almost cold It made me sorry that I had left the window up Saturday night when I pulled Jubilee up I stuck my head out of the bed clothes and felt the weather with it a little while and the more I left it out the more I didn't want to get up If I had been a man and had a little boy to milk my cows for me I could of turned over and went to sleep again without half trying But my father does the turning over and going back to sleep for our family

When me and Jubilee got out to the barn with the milk pail and were going to set down and milk Strings asked me what I was going to do with the turkle and I said not anything and he said then why leave it hang in, to the clothesline the rest of its life I took a look and it was still there So then he asked me if he could have it and I told him anyone could have it that wanted it So then while Strings and Bel and Peanuts was fighting to see which would have it Banty took it off the clothesline and shook out with it I was kinda glad when it was gone and on the way to the pasture I said so A turkle is not very much to own It doesn't say anything and it doesn't do anything and there ain't anything a fella can do with it

When we got back from the pasture and my aunt had done some fancy skating accross my features with some soap and washing whilst she hung onto one of my ears to steady herself and we were going to start for school here come Banty into the yard carrying the turkle by the tail and he had broken it home and chopped off its head and he said that as soon as it was dead he was going to make some turkle soup out of it He would put it down every once in a while to see if it was still alive and it would wiggle its legs so he would pick it up again

He put it in the aunty room at Sunday school and piled a lady's coat over it while he went in to our class but the lady picked up her coat and screamed so she broke up the Sunday school and he lugged his turkle because it didn't dast to say it was his I felt kinda sorry to have it wasted But a turkle might as well be dead as alive

Today was Monday and a man came before Mush could get away on his dump truck to collect for a new muffler cut out and the teacher founded Mush the money so the man would go away He talked so loud we couldn't keep our minds on our studies Mush and the man are lucky Teachers are not so very brave though

Woman Entry into Field Held Inviolate by Racers

Ask Rule Be Set Aside Permitting Woman in Racing Pit

What when ... forbidden ... different ... what directors of the Indianapolis Speedway contend Speedway authorities heretofore have fairly glowed as women have poured through the turnstile but the mention of women today makes them shudder

And all because a woman Alice Hoffman Trobek American born adopted daughter of France seeks to crash the pit and paddock section of the Speedway as director of Louis Chiron's attempt on May 30 to wrest the speed crown from Yankee drivers

Alice Hoffman Trobek was born in Hartford Conn but at the age of two years went to France with her parents She is delightfully effeminate in private life (and this is where the lady hands the Speedway officials) but a rabid racing fan and extremely businesslike while directing a driver's race from the pits

The Chiron organization sets up that Alice is an essential to Chiron's success as he himself She has kept all of his racing data that she is a veteran in the pits and is calm in the most nerve-racking situation They point to the exception made for her by German racing executives to that fatal day at Monza track in Turin Italy when 28 persons were killed and when the track authorities were forced to rely on her records because he was the lone person to perform her duties in the midst of the emotional catastrophe

Rules are rules said the Speedway officials but we'll take her case under advisement

WOMAN TELLS OF CALL TO MINISTRY

Evangelist Relates Christian Experience to Calvary Church Audience

An interesting part of the services at Calvary Evangelical church Sunday morning was the sermon by Mrs Edna Reougher Hughes, evangelist, in which she brought out some of the interesting facts of her life and call to the ministry. At both morning and evening services the church was crowded to capacity with about 40 altar responses in the two services.

Her morning sermon was on "Feeding the Multitudes." In telling of her call to the ministry, Mrs. Hughes told of the story of the feeding of the five thousand, bringing out the fact that no matter how little we have in the way of talents, if we put those talents in the hands of the Lord, there is no limit to the use He can make of them.

According to her sermon, Mrs. Hughes was called to preach soon after she was eight years old, but it was not until she was nearly 11 that she heeded the call. Although she was willing to sing or do personal work, she thought it was impossible for her to preach.

At one meeting in which she was helping, her voice left her and it was then, she says, that she came to the consciousness of her need and of the infilling of the Holy Spirit. She surrendered her own will to the will of God and preached her first sermon.

"It wasn't until Jesus had broken the loaf the little boy had in his lunch that the multitude could be fed," she pointed out. "And it wasn't until Christ was willing to be broken on the cross that the multitudes could be told the blessed story of the plan of redemption. Only after we are willing to surrender and be broken can He use us to His glory," she concluded.

Sunday night Mrs. Hughes spoke on "The Wages of Sin."

MINNEAPOLIS COPS COLUMBUS SERIES

Defeats Senators 13-2; Toledo Drops 8-5 Game to St. Paul

MIKE KELLEY'S pennant-chasing Minneapolis Millers made a clean sweep of the four game series with the Columbus Senators by taking the final game yesterday, 13 2. Columbus Hurlers, Jablonowski and Wykoff, were peppered for 18 hits, while the lowly Bucks had to be content with half that number. Minneapolis is still in second place in the American Association race but they may not be there long. Kansas City is just one-half game ahead of the Millers.

The League-leading Kansas City Blues defeated Indianapolis by collecting 12 hits off Ken Penner, the Indian pitcher, and topping the score, 6 to 2. It was Penner's first defeat in four games, and for Johnny Morrison, the cowboy, it was his second straight victory.

Three home runs by Hargrave, Hana and Anderson, in the eighth, each with a runner on base, gave the St. Paul club an 8-5 victory over the Toledo Mudhens yesterday.

After Louisville had taken the opener, 7-to-4, in the first game of the double header with Milwaukee yesterday, the Brewers came back and won the second, 7-to-1. Ivy Griffith, former brewer, featured in the win for the Colonel victory with four straight hits.

ANNE MISSING

Lindy's Fiancee Leaves Estate for Unannounced Destination

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., May 6—"Where is Anne?" has replaced the old question here today.

The young fiance of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Anne Morrow, attended church in Englewood yesterday morning and then left the palatial estate of her father, Ambassador Dwight Morrow, on a trip to an unannounced destination. Up until noon today she had not returned and there was no news of her trickling in from reportorial outposts and news hunters established all around the Morrow estate.

Moreover, there had been no sign of Lindy himself in the vicinity of Englewood either today or yesterday.

Dog Most Loyal Animal, Essay Winner Declares

Clark Wideman seventh grade student at Greenwood Street school is perhaps the happiest boy in Marion as a result of his winning the Wemuth Kennels $50 cocker spaniel Sambo which was given him for writing the best essay on Why Boys Love Dogs, in connection with Marion's observance of National Boys Week

This dog was given by the Square Heads club of the Y M C A through Wendell Wisnt, who gave the dog to the club

The winning essay one of the 50 entered is as follows

* * *

"BOYS of all countries sons of the past and of the present the mighty and humble, have loved dogs This devotion has been so universal and has become so apparent that we have been asked to tell why we love dogs

In the first place dogs love boys Affections given dogs are returned Dogs prove their devotion by being the most loyal of all animals

Dogs are so responsive to one's wishes They don't sulk or grumble or act peevish when a boy wants to have fun They are ready for any game and they are game

Dogs are very intelligent They can even seem to read a boy's mind and carry out his wishes almost before these wishes are spoken They can be taught tricks for our enjoyment and also many valuable tasks Dogs sense danger and warn us of it, and they know instinctively how to act in time of danger They have often saved people from drowning and a dog will suffer torture from smoke and flame to rescue a little friend from a burning building

Boys love heroes and dogs are true heroes But every boy likes to be somewhat of a hero himself. A boy with a dog is not without 'a following He is his dog's hero His pet seems to say You are the leader you know best' Boys like to be looked up to in this way

Every boy needs the friendship of a faithful dog companion Since some boy is to receive Sambo this little black pup will certainly be loved and cared for because he is a dog a member of the noble family of canines who know just how to pull at a boy's heartstrings and win his everlasting devotion It seems to me we were filled for each other be someone who knew the sort of playmate the other needed"

3 MARION HURLERS SOCKED FOR 18 HITS BY SPRINGFIELD NINE

Locals Get 14 Bingles, Will Play Lima Here Next Sunday

BY BOB FLEMING

MARION'S brand new Sunday baseball team opened 1929 season yesterday at Lincoln park by dropping a 12 to 4 festival of hijinks and errors to the Springfield Kibler Clothiers whom the locals defeated in the opener last year 4 to 2

It was the smallest opening day crowd of the past few seasons that was on hand yesterday Those that were present saw the Clothier batters smash the offerings of three local hurlers to all corners of the ball lot Four doubles and two home runs combined with 12 singles and four Marion errors were enough to defeat the Eagles with room to spare

Longshore started the game on the mound for the locals and retired in the fifth with one out and six runs in Eight hits were gathered off his delivery by the Springfield nine, those including a home run by pinch hitter Stanley Snarr which came in the fifth with two blocks of the bases populated Rosebery took up the burden and managed to get by until the ninth when Harold Fetter took up the hill work Fetter displayed the best work of the three, allowing one hit in the single inning he worked Kibler's socked Mr Rosebery for five hits also including a four baser in the three frames he toiled

Shoup and Higgins were the leading Marion hitters with three safe blows apiece Higgins got a double and two singles while Shoup collected two one base hits and a long triple to the center field fence Joe Conroy got two hits both singles and scored one of the locals four runs Ninny Irvin and Johnny Evans both collected two singles for their part The Marion nine failed to bunch their hits getting only three runs in the first three innings on 11 hits These hits were offset to a great degree by the wood pitching of the Eagle moundsmen and the four errors by the Marion fielders Johnny Evans was charged with three errors two at first base in the first inning and one more at third where he performed for the last eight frames

Rust Springfield left gardener was the main thorn in the locals rose garden This gentleman socked out four hits including two doubles and cut off a promising Marion rally by a one handed stab at a line drive

Marion scored one run in each of the first three innings and at the start of the fifth frame was leading, 3 to 2 However the Clothiers batted clear around in the fifth inning getting five hits and scoring four runs Payne started the inning off nice enough by whiffing but Longshore gave a faint hint of what was to come when he threw the next ball directly at Gordons foot Rust singled to right, Gordon going to second Gilmartin doubled to center scoring Gordon and sending Rust to third Snarr batted for Rife and socked the first pitched ball far over the left field fence scoring Rust and Gilmartin Two more hits and Rosebery relieved Longshore retiring the side in short order Marion managed to collect a run in the seventh inning when Shoup tripled and came home on Joe Conroys single to left field The Eagles were easy for young Mr Lucas who hurled for the visitors From the start of the third to the end of the eighth only 18 men faced him He struck out nine of these

Bill Lucas who was to do the pitching for the Marion team has signed up with an Iowa league and will spend this season out there Earl Gastner manager of the Eagles announced that strings would be put out for a new back stop

The Marion nine will tackle the Lima Broadways here next Sunday afternoon

SOLONS SHUT OUT BY MILLER IN 1-0 FRAY; REDS BEATEN

Dazzy Vance Holds Number of Cincy. Giving Brooklyn 4-1 Win

HELD to two measly hits and a trio of scratches Lefty Miller in full control behind Fish Talk the Cleveland Indians toiled seven nails to bind some excellent pitching by Walter Miller and ruined Ad Liska's two hit performance by defeating Washington yesterday at Union park 1 to 0 It was a regular old fashioned hurling battle with Fish Talk the Indians new outer gardener from the big boom city taking care of winning the game by himself

Cincinnati's Reds again failed to extend one of their winning streaks to more than one successive game when they bowed before the efforts of Arthur C Vance the well known Brooklyn dazzler Saturday the Reds won from the Robins behind Red Lucas three hit performance on the mound Sunday was a different story with Vance striking out nine Redlegs and walking never a man The Reds secured four hits one a home run by Curt Walker in the fourth frame for the only Cincinnati run The score was 4 1

Vance was in perfect form setting the Reds in order in six of the nine innings and letting only 12 men face him in the other three No Red got over one bit while the Robins connected Lefty Donohue for 12 hits including a two base smash by Eden Wright with one on

Lisk a hot mound work at Cleveland all went for naught when in the second inning Lalk beat out a hit to Myer and took second when Myer threw over Judges head a difficult feat for any infielder Lamarr lined to Cronin who fumbled Lalk scoring and Lamarr going to second Ad got the next three men but the Senators could not get to Mr Miller with any degree of familiarity and Liska had lost the prize tough luck game of the season Only three put outs were credited to the Washington outfield which shows how far the tribe was walloping the submarine hurler's delivery

Mr Falk put himself further into the good graces of the tribal fans when he pulled the flashiest fielding stunt of the season in the fifth frame The Senators filled the sacks with only one out and Bluege hitting for West was at the bat He sent one of Miller's fast ones on a line to Falk in right center field Falk could not quite make the catch and when the ball hit the ground Sam Rice who was on third started for home Falk grabbed the ball and shot it on a line for home nailing the fast Mr Rice with what was probably the

VANCE ONLY BRIGHT SPOT AT BROOKLYN

BY DAVIS J WALSH

NEW YORK, May 6—There are doubtless a lot of things that can be done with a salary of $25,000 a year exclusive of the fact that it cannot be offered as a common purse reward to a pitcher who can win ball games for the Brooklyn club This outfit fought to its dying gasp this spring to escape using Dazzy Vance this season But it ended up rendering a pitcher in the major league It ought to begin paying him for next year right at his mound for there's one thing the Dodgers figure to do in 1929 outside of cracking in a desperate finish for seventh place and that is to finish away ahead of Vance on that $25,000 basis

In beating the Reds 4 to 1 yesterday Vance completed 9 innings at a net loss of only one earned run and this with a club that steps right out and gives a pitcher exactly no help all the time You can say what you will about Vance but he is likely to leave baseball behind him with a pitching record as great as that of the Mathewsons Youngs the Johnsons the Waddells and other immortals and from early indications he will be his greatest year

Wilberg Beats Browns

Vance's performance in subduing the Reds was one of two features of a week end of intersectional baseball The other game was in St Louis yesterday when the only game the Browns lost during the week was the game that dropped them out of first place and promoted the Athletics accordingly It is the little things that count they say and the Browns who haven't been hitting were very little yesterday In fact they neglected to score at all against Wilberg and Sam Gray with a six hit performance had to accept his first beating of the season

Last Downed By West

However in spite of Vance and Wilberg the east took quite a fling in the first skirmishes with the west which won 10 games and lost five The only western teams that were down in these engagements this morning were the White Sox which blew two to the Yankees and the Browns beaten in their only start by the Athletics Quite a formidable contender the latter They either have been in front of the field or well up with the Browns since well back in April the pair being tied on April 23 and 26 and the Browns going into their longest lead to date 1½ games on April 30 However the Athletics proceeded to take the lead in their first game on the road and if that isn't one good way of winning a pennant then I'm forced to check the bet

Barring the Athletics and Yanks who began to hit in Chicago and forgot to stop the rest of the east has been carrying everything with its

The Juniors at 6 o'clock on the Central grounds tonight Jones will meet the Hewitzer squad while Thursday night at the same grounds the Sole team will be tackled

WALLACE TO FIGHT KAPLAN ON FRIDAY

Benny Bass and Petey Mack To Open New York Program

NEW YORK May 6—This week's international boxing program in New York's and even tonight with a 10 round bout at the St Nicholas arena between Penny Lass Philadelphia veteran who once held the feather weight title and Petey Mack of Newark

The feature bout of the week is a 10 round fight at Madison Square Garden on Friday night between the rival lightweights Billy Wallace of Cleveland and Louis Kid Kaplan former featherweight champion

Wallace scored an overnight reputation two years ago by stopping Kaplan in five rounds It was the first time the Connecticut battler had ever been knocked out

Willie has been ushered with bad hands and forced into long spells of idleness by illness but still rates as Sammy Mandell's most formidable rival

A new national amateur heavyweight champion will be crowned this week at Madison Square Garden when boxers in four classes from Canada Boston Pittsburgh Philadelphia and New York participate in an inter nations tournament tomorrow and Thursday night

The heavyweight title competition is limited to three men and is an added attraction to the regular program which has an entry list of 70 crack amateurs

TILDEN AND HUNTER DEFEATED BY YOUNG DAVIS CUP STARS

Allison, Lott, Van Ryn Cause Excitement in Tennis Circles

PHILADELPHIA May 6—The dawn of a new era in American tennis was seen today in the results developments in the Davis cup tennis here yesterday

John Hennessey of Indianapolis Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth Texas and John Van Ryn of Lakewood N J were named to represent the United States against Canada at Montreal on May 10 11 and 13 with George M Lott of Chicago in reserve for an emergency summons These selections had been forecast inasmuch as Lott had expressed his desire to follow his tennis and other athletic pursuits at the University of Chicago and William T Tilden and Francis T Hunter former first and second ranking players were not candidates for the Canadian junior title

But developments which were no forecast were the defeats of Tilden and Hunter in both the singles and doubles in practice matches at the tryout Hennessey swamped Tilden, 6-1 6-4 Van Ryn beat Hunter 4-6 6-4 6-4 and Van Ryn and Allison conquered Tilden and Hunter in veteran international doubles combination 1-6 6-3 6-2

Tilden and Hunter leave on Wednesday for a campaign on European courts it having been expected that one or both would be called upon to play in the challenge round with France

But in view of their defeats yesterday many observers predicted today that a new milestone in tennis history had been reached and that Messrs Van Ryn Allison and Lott all members of the new generation of American tennis would carry the colors of the United States against France

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

All Marion market items were steady this morning, with practically no changes for the week-end. Strawberries are back on the market at 23 cents this morning after selling for 15 cents a pint. These berries are slightly different than those offered earlier in the week, which came from Louisiana.

New potatoes are selling three pounds for 20 cents, quite a high price for them, but which will probably remain until local potatoes make their appearance.

Meat items were steady with no price changes. Fruits are steady, all items holding practically the same levels of earlier in the week.

Today's Review of Grain Market

CHICAGO, May 6—Grain prices milled around in a narrow range most of the week, and near the close of the markets turned decidedly heavy, with all the options of wheat going to new lows. Sentiment was bearish in view of crop conditions and the depressing statistical position.

Closing prices Saturday showed net losses for the week of 1¼@1⅜c in wheat. Corn was ¼@⅝c lower; oats ⅛c up to ⅜c off, and rye 1@2⅜c lower.

Wheat Outlook Bearish

With the passing of each successive day and the continuation of the near ideal conditions surrounding the winter crop, the already stringent wheat situation becomes more acute. Expert demand, the only present salvation possible, shows no sign of greater development, but instead is decreasing, as indicated by world's shipments. Consequently the picture of the next two months reveals the harvest of a bumper winter crop to add to the weight of the present too burdensome supplies.

Merger Rumors Again Cause Jump; American Can Above $150

BY W. S. COUSINS
L. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, May 6—The motor stocks and the oils, with a few of the favored specialties, pushed forward to slightly higher price levels at the beginning of the new week behind a moderate wave of week-end buying orders. The airplane stocks were the favorites in the specialties, while the overexploited stocks like Advance Rumely common and preferred fell back two to four points. American Can drew the blue ribbon by its much heralded exploit in crossing 150 for the first time, which is equivalent to a price of $900 a share on the old stock.

Last week's upward move in Packard, Chrysler, Murray, Marmon, Briggs and other favored motor stocks was promptly resumed at the beginning of trading today, and these stocks sold up about a point on the average. Columbia Graphophone advanced three points to 81 on the strength of its possible merger with Radio. Consolidated Gas at 115 1-2 showed a new gain of two points, with rumors persisting of a gigantic merger, to embrace the Brooklyn Union Gas and other metropolitan gas and electric light companies. Atlantic Refining, at the head of the oils, sold up two points at 71 1-2.
